Dating back to the 7th century, Krakow is the second largest, and one of the most culturally and politically significant cities in Poland. It was the central site of the Nazi General Government during WWII, and there's still a residual feeling of solemnity here that's especially apparent during visits to the Plaszow Concentration Camp and the Oskar Schindler Factory.

Both the Historic City Centre and the Jewish District are brimming with cafés, shops, and pubs, and the 10-acre Main Market Square is a medieval feast for the senses. Old Town Krakow is a UNESCO World Heritage site.

The average temperatures in Krakow in February are 37°/23°F.
